"Ballet, Wines, the Four Seasons — but wait there's more with your moving coverage of 9-11, the honest talk with hotel GM and your local stations. The aviation segment made so many good points, and I've always wanted to go to Monticello as I love Jefferson! Kudos on another fine broadcast, I wish my stations ran the show live but I catch you on the website live stream."

"I've heard you promoting the 'Let's Go America! Tour' on your recent shows and made a note on my calendar that this week was Washington, DC. I was planning to unplug from all media on 9-11 as I didn't want to be reminded about how terrible a day it was 20 years ago but I have to commend you on the sensitivity and demeanor you expressed throughout the show. Really nice job!!! You left me feeling upbeat and proud of the area that I live. I am definitely going to check out the Sunset Hills Vineyard, and so happy to hear that the brunch at the Four Seasons is back after more than a year being shut down! I really liked the aviation guy Richard too! Thank you for the wonderful show, can't wait to tune-in to the next one!"

"Well done! Great tribute to an important date."

20 Years ago tomorrow, the world changed when terrorists attacked our nation. But America is a resilient country and to pay our respects to those who lost their lives — for Day 3 of Stop #5 on the “Let’s Go America! Tour” we visited the National 9-11 Memorial at the Pentagon. Although currently closed to the public for the pandemic, we were granted special permission to access the site and had a chance to meet with Jim Laychak — who’s responsible for the Memorial and who also lost his brother on that day that we must never forget! You’ll hear our interview with Jim during the live remote broadcast of America’s #1 Travel Radio Show tomorrow on September 11th from the Four Seasons Hotel in Washington, DC. Join us on 1 of our 480+ affiliates around the country or listen live at www.RMWorldTravel.com. 🇺🇸
